THE KINNEY FAMILY

FOREWORD

A number of efforts have been made from time to time to trace branches of the Henry Kinne Family, originally of Salem, Massachusetts, and considerable data has been accumulated.

Mr. Louis B. Kinne, 363 East 49th Street, Portland, Oregon, in 1932 compiled from the vital statistics of Salem, Massachusetts, and from records of various members of the family much valuable data on the family in Massachusetts and Connecticut.

The "Kinne Historical and Genealogical Society," William Kinne of Plainfield, Connecticut, President, and Herbert E. Kinney, 5 Vanderbilt Avenue, New York City, Secretary, published in 1886 (Press of Rufus Adams, 167 Broadway, New York) the lineage of the descendants of Thomas Kinne, the second son of Henry Kinne.

Emerson Kinne published a book in 1881 (copy in the Library of Congrss - C.S. 71 K 557) printed by Masters and Stone, Syracuse, New York, entitled "History and Genealogy of a Branch of the Family of Kinney". This work traces the Cyrus Kinne (born August 11, 1746) branch of Onondaga County, New York.

In addition, work has been done by Mr. Clarence E. Kinne of 116 South Indiana Avenue, Watertown, New York, and his sister, Miss Clara Belle Kinne, formerly with the Indian Service, Interior Department, Washington, D.C.; also by Mrs. Eliza W. (Frederick) Osgood of Norwich, Connecticut. Mrs. Osgood was preparing a history of the Kinne family in 1903, which was not published when her death occurred. It is understood that her material was turned over to the Connecticut Historical Society at Hartford, Conn.

The attached account represents an effort to trace the David Kinney branch of the family. David Kinne settled in Otsego County, New York about 1793, having moved from Connecticut. The account traces his descent from Henry Kinne of Massachusetts and the sources previously mentioned have been drawn upon for this information. John Calder Pearson of Cleveland, Ohio, furnished the genealogy of Jerusha Park who married David Kinney at Stonington, Connecticut, August 22, 1771. It is realized that this material is incomplete and may err in some details. Corrections and any additional information will be most gratefully received from any members of this branch of the family.

HISTORICAL

The family name is found in various forms, Kene, Keney, Keeney, Keny, Kenny, Kine, Kinne, Kinnee, Kinnie and Kinney. Sometimes the name is spelled differently in the same record. There are many of the family name in Massachusetts, Connecticut, Vermont, New Hampshire and New York, and to a lesser extent in many other states. In the 1790 census of New York some sixteen separate families are listed and in the same census for New London, Connecticut, alone there are fifteen families. In the Revolutionary War twenty-three men of the family served from the State of Connecticut. Since the same given names are found repeatedly in these early records, it seems reasonable to assume that most, if not all, of them were descendants of Henry Kene or Kinnie, who is recorded in Salem, Massachusetts, in 1638.

The name Kinne is found in North and Middle England which was the stronghold of the Puritan movement. It has been fairly well established that Henry Kinne was a Puritan of English ancestry and emigrated from Holland. In 1611 King James I created from the landed gentry of England an order of hereditary knights called "baronets." Family tradition says that Thomas Kinne, of Norwich, England, father of Henry, was made a Baronet, with the title of Sir and a Coat of Arms, after payment of the established fee of One Thousand Pounds, Sterling. When Charles I succeeded his father to the throne in 1625, he renewed the persecution of all persons who did not adhere to the established church and many of the Puritans fled to Holland. Among these was Sir Thomas Kinne and his family who are recorded in Leyden, Holland, in 1633. After the first band of Puritans set out from Holland and settled in America in 1620, thousands of others followed, particularly between the years of 1629-1640, which were called the years of the "Great Migration." It is unknown whether Sir Thomas Kinne came to America, but his son Henry is recorded as being apprenticed to a man in Salem, Massachusetts, in 1638.

THE KINNEY FAMILY

1. Henry Kinne (1)

THE IMMIGRANT

Henry Kinne was born May 3, 1624, in Norfolk County, the son of Sir Thomas Kinne of Norwich, England. His family were Puritans and fled to Leyden, Holland, in 1633 during the reign of Charles I, who attempted to carry out the dictum of his father, James I, who said of the Puritans, "I will make them conform or I will harry them out of the land." The exact year that Henry emigrated is unknown, but he is recorded as being apprenticed to a man in Salem, Massachusetts, in 1638. Apparently his father had died in Holland or sent him to friends in America as Henry was only 14 years of age at this time. He married in 1650 Ann Howard, born in 1632, the daughter of Thomas and Susanne Howard of Ipswich, Massachusetts. They were living in Salem Village (now Danvers), Essex County, in 1651 and records show that Henry was employed in preaching a part of the time. He was town constable at one time. He built a home on the turnpike between Salem and Boston which was burned many years ago.

His name is found in several forms in the church of Danvers, in the records of Salem and in the documents in the State House in Boston. In 1684, deposing as a witness to a will, Henry stated he was sixty years old. In 1712, Henry Kinney, in a quit-claim deed to his brother John, spoke of their father Henry "now deceased". He died June 19, 1696 and Ann died in 1680. It is believed that Henry and others of his name lie in an old burial ground in Danvers, not far from the house in which General Israel Putnam was born in 1718. This ground is made up, in part at least, of land once owned by Henry Kinne. Children:

33. David Kinney (5)

David Kinney was born November 3, 1746 at Preston, Connecticut. He was married to Jerusha Park, August 22, 1771, at Stonington, by Samuel Mott, Justice of the Peace of Preston, Conn. Jerusha was born December 24, 1741, the daughter of Benajah and Lydia Parish Park and descended from Robert Parke born in 1580 at Preston, England. An account of her ancestry follows that of David Kinney.

David appeared in the 1790 census for New London, Connecticut, together with his brothers Asa and Benjamin. Around 1790 William Cooper of Burlington, New Jersey, acquired a very large acreage near Otsego Lake, New York, the source of the Susquehanna River. He soon moved to this tract and established a home on the lake at the site of the Village of Cooperstown. About 1793 David moved from Connecticut and established a home about 7 miles west of Cooperstown and within the boundaries of the large tract of land acquired by Judge Cooper. At one time he lived in a log house on the east side of the road from Snowdon school house (District No. 5, Town of Otsego) south toward Hartwick and about one-quarter mile from the school house. This farm has been owned successively by William Russell, Delos Lake and Leon Eckler.

David is recorded in the 1800 census of Otsego Township, Otsego County, New York, together with his family. His two oldest sons, William and Asa, who had married and had families are shown also. David died about 1820. David and Jerusha had the following children:

40. I. William (6) b. April 19, 1772
41. II. Jerusha (6) b. March 4, 1774
42. III. Asa (6) b. August 11, 1776
43. IV. Lucinda (6) b. July 11, 1778
44. V. Jonas (6) b. November 28, 1780
45. VI. Hannah (6) b. March 4, 1784
46. VII. David (6) b. About 1785

Jerusha Park

Jerusha Parke who married David Kinne at Stonington, Connecticut, on August 22, 1771, descended from an old English family. The record of her ancestry is as follows:

(1) Robert Parke

Robert Parke (called Mr. in the early records, though some of the recent notices of the family mention him as Sir Robert, and of noble birth) was born in Preston, England, in 1580. He married in England Martha Chaplin, daughter of Captain Robert Chaplin of Edmondsbury. The writer, James Savage, says that Robert Parke made the voyage to America twice. The following from a private record refers to one of the voyages: "Robert Parke and his family sailed from Cowes, Isle of Wight for America, on board the Arabella, with 76 passengers, March 29, 1630, and landed in Boston, Massachusetts, June 17, 1630, making the voyage in seventy-eight days."

According to Hawthorne's story, "Grandfather's Chair," the chair was brought to the Colony by Lady Arabella Clinton Johnson on this voyage of the Arabella which her husband had named in her honor. "If you could behold the passengers aboard that vessel" says Hawthorne, "you would feel what a blessing and honor it was for New England to have such settlers. They were the best men and women of the day." Among the passengers was John Winthrop, the first Governor of Massachusetts, to whom, a tradition of one branch of the family says, Robert Parke was secretary. James Savage wrote in 1861: "Robert Parke went back in 1630, carrying an order by our Governor to his son, John, in England to pay money, which is now in my possession, and may be the earliest bill of exchange drawn on our side of the water." He probably returned to Massachusetts on the Lion in December, 1630.

A manuscript in New London, Connecticut, says: "the wife of Captain Robert Chaplin was Elizabeth daughter of Francis Ansty" (possibly Austy). The second wife of Robert Parke was Alice, widow of Rev. John Tompson, whose daughter, Dorothy, married Thomas Parke, i.e., the father and son married mother and daughte In his favor was the curious order of May 30, 1644, by the General Court of the Colony of Connecticut, that he might "proceed in marriage with Alice Tompson without further publishment."

Robert Parke named Preston, Connecticut, for his old home in England, Preston. His public record is: Resided at Wethersfield, 1639; freeman 1640; representative, 1642; removed in 1649 to New London where his barn was the first place of worship; selectman, 1651; representative, 1652; called "an aged man" in a paper of 1662. His will was dated May 14, 1660, was probated in March, 1665 and names his three sons. He died in Mystic, Connecticut, February 11, 1665, and is buried in the graveyard at White Hall, Mystic, Connecticut.

Robert and Martha Chaplin Parke had three sons and it is believed one daughter -

I. William (2) born 1604. Was a Deacon and lived in Roxbury. He died in 1685 and was ancestor of the Williams family of Deerfield who were captured by the Indians ("The Redeemed Captive") and of the half-breed father or adopted father of "Lazarre," Eleazar Williams, Louis XVII of France.

II. Samuel (2) born 16--
III. Thomas (2) born about 1620
IV. Anne (2) born 16--

(2) Thomas Parke

Thomas Parke was born about 1620 in Preston, England. He removed from Wethersfield to Stonington in 1649 and thence to New London, in the part included in the town of Preston in 1686. The Congregational Church of Preston was formed November 16, 1698 and he was the first deacon. He married Dorothy Tompson, daughter of Rev. John and Alice Tompson of Little Preston of the Parish of Preston Capes in Northamptonshir England. In the parish register of Preston Capes are recorded the baptisms of the children of John and Ali Tompson:

Mary, November 14, 1619, married Rev. Richard Blinmen
Dority, July 2, 1621, died October 19, 1621
Bridget, September 11, 1622, married Captain George Denison
Dority, July 5, 1624, married Thomas Parke
Nathaniel, October 16, 1625
Martha, December 17, 1626

Rev. John Tompson's will was dated November 6, 1626 and was probated April 11, 1627. The widow Alice with several of her young children came to America and was living at Roxbury, Massachusetts, prior to 1640. In 1644 she married Robert Parke, the father of her son-in-law, Thomas Parke.

Thomas Parke's will was dated September 5, 1707. He died July 3, 1709. Thomas and Dorothy Tompson Parke had the following children:

I. Martha (3) born 1646, married Isaac Wheeler
II. Thomas (3) born 1648
III. William (3) born 16--
IV. Robert (3) born 16--
V. Nathaniel (3) born 16--
VI. Dorothy (3) born 16--
VII. Alice (3) born 16--
VIII. John (3) born 16--

(3) Thomas Parke

Thomas Parke was born in Wethersfield, Connecticut, in 1648. He resided in Norwich, in the part which became Preston in 1686. He married January 4, 1672, Mary Allyn of Norwich, who was baptized at Salem, Massachusetts, November 19, 1648. She was the daughter of Robert Allyn who first appears at Salem in 1637, where he was admitted to the church on May 15, 1642. His children John and Sarah, were baptized the following Sunday. He went to New London in 1651 and was at Norwich in 1659 and was constable there in 1669. Part of his farm preserves in the harbor of New London the name of "Allyn's Point." His daughter Sarah, married February 17, 1659, George Geer. He had at least two daughters besides those previously mentioned, Hannah, who married Thomas Rose and Deborah. After living for some time at Norwich, he returned to New London, where he died in 1683.

Thomas Parke died before 1709. The children of Thomas and Mary Allyn Parke were:

I. Samuel (4) born November 26, 1673
II. Thomas (4) born January 20, 1676
III. Mary (4) born January 28, 1678
IV. Jonathan (4) born April 6, 1679
V. Deborah (4) born December, 1680

(4) Thomas Park

Thomas Park was born in Norwich (what is now Preston) on January 20, 1676. He married November 15, 1703, at Preston, Hannah Wetter, born March 17, 1681, daughter of Josiah Wetter. They had:

I. Benajah (5) born 1718

(5) Benajah Park

Benajah Park was baptized at Preston, Connecticut, on August 3, 1718. He married Lydia Parish about 1740 and they had:

I. Jerusha (6) born December 24, 1741

40. William Kinney (6)

Born April 19, 1772, at Preston (now Griswold) Connecticut. He is reputed to have been a student at Harvard College. He became a cabinet maker and married about 1794, Mary, daughter of Judge Timothy Morse of the Court of Common Pleas, Otsego County, New York. This was the Timothy Morse, who as a young man, was challenged to a wrestling match by Judge William Cooper and, having won the match, was given a 100 acres of land by Judge Cooper.

William made his home for a time on the farm later owned by Fred Bolton (and by Thomas McManus in 1921) on the road from the Briar Hill school house north toward the old Telfer farm about 1/4 mile from the school house in Burlington, Otsego County. William moved from place to place and finally, about 1815, started for the Southwest. He stopped in northwestern Pennsylvania (Potter County) where lived Gideon Irons, who had previously migrated from Otsego, New York. His sons, William and Timothy, worked for Irons here and Timothy married the daughter, Lydia Irons, whose mother's maiden name was Lydia Page.

About 1826 young William and Timothy returned to Otsego. William, Sr., again migrated, accompanied by the rest of his family, and pursuing his way westward, penetrated to the headwaters of the Ohio river. Here he built a flat boat, embarked on it with his wife and children and their effects, and floated down the river to the Kentucky shore at Maysville. A few years later he sickened and died, either in Kentucky or Indiana. His wife, Mary, wrote her son William concerning their circumstances and needs and he went with team and wagon and brought the family back to Otsego. Mary lived on to an advanced age and is buried in Otsego. Their children were as follows:

47. I. Timothy (7) b. 1795
48. II. William (7) b. 1799
49. III. Samuel (7) b. 1805
50. IV. Joseph A. (7) b. 1812
51. V. Ann (7) b. 1813
52. VI. Robert (7) b. About 1815. Died in infancy.

42. Asa Kinney (6)

Born August 11, 1776, in Preston, Connecticut, he married Elizabeth Joslin on January 13, 1799. She was born in 1780 in Hopkinton, Connecticut, the daughter of Henry Joslin and died in 1848. Asa joined his father, David, in Otsego County, New York, before 1800 as he was listed in the census of that year in Otsego Township. In the 1820 census he is shown with his wife and 5 children, 3 sons and 2 daughters. He was not shown in the Otsego census of 1840 and is reported to have moved to Jackson, Susquehanna County, Pennsylvania. The names of his children are unknown but it is believed that Alonzo Kinney was one of his sons or perhaps a grandson. Alonzo was quite elderly when he used to visit Joseph Page Kinney at Snowdon in the 80's and lived in Susquehanna County, Pennsylvania. He had a daughter Roxanna who was about 50 years old around 1885. Children:

53. I. Son (7) b. about 1800
54. II. Daughter (7) b. About 1802
55. III. Son (7) b. about 1803
56. IV. Daughter (7) b. about 1805
57. V. Son (7) b. about 1807

Note: There were four Kinneys, all born around 1800 and all living in Otsego County as late as 1870. We have been unable to identify them. They may have been children of Asa (No. 42), Jonas (No. 44) or David Kinney (No. 46) or they may have come from other lines. They were as follows:

1. Jasper Kinne, born 1799 in New York. Living in Butternuts, Otsego County in 1870
2. Jonathan Kinne, born 1800 in New York. Living in Butternuts, Otsego County in 1870. His wife was Lydia _____ and their children as follows:

   a. Samuel H. born 1832
   b. Ruth L. born 1834
   c. Jonathan J. born 1837 married Bell _____ born 1850
   d. William R. born 1842

   There was also a Nancy Kinney born 1776 in Massachusetts living in Butternuts in 1850. She was probably the mother of Jasper and Jonathan above.

3. Hiram Kinne born 1800 in New York. He was a Magistrate and living in Cooperstown in 1860.
4. Alfred Kinne born 1803 in New York. Living in Otsego in 1850 but apparently moved away before 1860 as he was not found in census records subsequent to 1850. On December 6, 1827 he married Harriett Pier, born in 1807. Their children were:

   a. George born 1829 married Catherine Jones
   b. Letitia born 1836
   c. Melifer born 1839 married John Orr. They had:

      (1) Phoebe born 18-- married Matthew Crawford of Minneapolis, Minnesota. They had:

         (a) Isabel
         (b) Ruth
         (c) Grace
         (d) Matthew

      (2) Hortense
      (3) Forrest

   d. Melville born 1847
   e. Erwin born 1849

   In addition, Harriett born 1831 and Mary Kinney born 1833, were living in this vicinity.

44. Jonas Kinney (6)

Born November 28, 1780 in Preston, Connecticut. He married Patty Joslin of Preston on March 5, 1801. He apparently returned to Preston to be married, as his father, David, had removed to Otsego County, New York, about 1793. He doubtless remained in Connecticut for many years after his marriage but he and his wife appear in Otsego Township in 1840, both about 60 years of age. No children appear in this census and no record of children has been located.

46. David Kinney (6)

Born about 1785 in Connecticut, he married about 1810, Nancy _____. He appeared in the 1820 census for Otsego with 3 daughters and 2 sons. It appears that David must have died or moved away from Otsego before 1830 as he does not appear in the census records for subsequent years. It is believed that Ephriam Kinney born in 1826 was his son or the son of Jonas or Asa Kinney.

58. I. Daughter (7) b. about 1811
59. II. Son (7) b. about 1812
60. III. Son (7) b. about 1813
61. IV. Daughter (7) b. about 1815
62. V. Daughter (7) b. about 1818
63. VI. Ephriam (7) b. 1826

47. Timothy Kinney (7)

Born in 1795 in Otsego, New York, he accompanied his father William to Potter County, Pennsylvania, about 1815 and there married Lydia Irons about 1819, who was the daughter of Gideon and Lydia (Page) Irons. He returned to Otsego in 1826 with his wife and four children who had been born to him there. His son Joseph was about four years old at that time. The journey consumed some weeks and was made with sleighs in the winter season. They farmed and made their home in Otsego for many years. Timothy died February 18, 1858, and Lydia, March 2, 1852. Both are buried at Snowdon, Otsego Township, New York, in the burial ground near the school house for Otsego District No. 5, 3 miles west of Oaksville, New York. Also buried here are their daughter, Jerusha and Lydia. Their children were:

64. I. Burrell (8) b. 1820
65. II. Joseph Page (8) b. April 9, 1822

65. Joseph Page Kinney (8)

Born April 9, 1822 in Potter County, Pennsylvania. When he was about four years of age his father returned to Otsego, New York, where Joseph grew up and acquired an excellent farm at Snowdon in Otsego Township, not far from where his great grandfather, David Kinney, was located when he removed from Connecticut around 1793. In 1850 Joseph lived with his Uncle, Joseph A. Kinney, in Hartwick. In 1854 he decided to look over some land in Illinois, with the idea of settling there. In telling about it afterwards, he related that he became lost in surveying some of the area and it being a very warm day, he began to suffer considerably from thirst and was finally forced to drink water from a depression in a cowpath. At that point he said that Otsego, New York, won over Illinois and he made up his mind to return to Otsego and to stay there. His son, Jay, has always claimed that he could tell the minute of crossing the Otsego County line, even in the dark - Otsego is just different, in a better way, of course, than any other spot on earth, according to Jay.

Shortly after Joseph returned from his trek to Illinois in 1854, he purchased from Mr. Potter (father of Everett Potter) the 200 acre farm at Snowdon and in 1860 had his sister, Rhoda and brother-in-law, Mason Chapman, and their family living with him to help on the farm. In a few years he had his land all paid for and in the course of time erected a fine set of buildings, the improvements on his farm ranking with the best in Otsego Township. In 1870, William Stanton and his wife, Mahala, were living with him, William helping on the farm and Mahala keeping house. In addition, he employed Charles and Olive Pickens and William Loomis, a cheesemaker.

On January 22, 1873 Joseph married at Oneonta, New York, Isabel Nasbeth Stanhouse, born November 8, 1852, daughter of George and Elinor (Rea) Stanhouse of Burlington, New York. She was a lady of sterling character, beloved by all who knew her and a true helpmate. In addition to running his dairy and hop farm, Joseph also operated a cheese factory. For this purpose he utilized an old house which he moved in 1871 from the present home site and which was operated many years before as an inn on the turnpike. This building, still in fair repair, is located just off the highway between Cooperstown and Edmeston where it crosses the Kinney farm. The present Kinney home was built in 1872.

Joseph earned a reputation as an accurate, prudent and clear-headed man in his business methods, fair and conscientious in his dealings and by his judicious manner of handling his affairs became one of the solid and respected citizens of this section. Although he enjoyed robust health, in attempting to beat out a brush fire, he over-exerted himself, took cold which developed into pneumonia and died, May 11, 1893. Isabel lived on for many years, saw to it that her children were well educated, maintained a fine home and an enduring interest in the world about her and justly earned the deep love of her children, grandchildren and great grandchildren. She died on January 23, 1939, at the age of 87. Joseph and Isabel were buried at Burlington Green, New York. Their children were:

102. I. Arthur Rea (9) b. November 25, 1873

102. Arthur Rea Kinney (9)

Born November 25, 1873, at Snowdon in Otsego, New York, Art continued the traditional Kinney family occupation of farming, begun in New York State by David Kinney in 1793 and before that by his ancestors for a 150 years in Massachusetts and Connecticut. Art took some agricultural courses at Cornell University during the winter months and has handled the Kinney farm, which he took over at his father's death, in a highly creditable manner. He is still going strong after 53 years and his performance is all the more remarkable because for the past 15 years he has operated the 270 acre dairy farm almost single-handedly, due to the scarcity of help. In 1948 he is still milking some 25 cows twice a day, with the help of a milking machine when it works and by hand when it doesn't. In addition, his hay barns continue year after year to be well filled. Art isn't sold too much on new fangled notions, although he spear-headed the forming of a cooperative to get a fair price for the milk produced on his and his neighbor's farms. He has plenty of spunk and the blood of his pioneer forefathers runs richly in his veins. He never had time to get married so he continues to live in a state of single blessedness at Snowdon with his cow dog, "Wilkie."

103. Jay P. Kinney (9)

Born September 18, 1875, at Snowdon in Otsego, New York. He was educated at Cornell University, where he received A.B. and M.F. degrees and at National University in Washington, D.C., where he completed his law studies and received the L.L.B. degree in 1908. He was admitted to the Bar of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia in 1908. His first employment in the Federal Civil Service was as an Examiner in the U. S. Patent Office, but in February 1910, he was transferred to the Indian Service in the Department of the Interior and during the following 35 years was principally engaged in the organization and development of the Indian Forest Service and the general advancement of forest, range and soil conservation on lands under the administration of the Interior Department.

In 1945, about a month before he was due to retire from the Department of the Interior because of age limitation, the Department of Justice requested his transfer to the position of Principal Attorney in that Department with his primary duties those of an advisor in forestry in connection with the defense of important suits involving timber holdings of the Indians. His extensive knowledge of Indian administration together with his education in forestry and his long practical experience in forest and legal problems had qualified him for the special duties for which he has been retained beyond the age at which retirement is ordinarily mandatory.

He is author of "Forest Legislation in America Prior to March 4, 1789," "The Essentials of American Timber Law," "The Development of Forest Law in America" and "A Continent Lost - A Civilization Won." He has also contributed many articles to publications on forestry and conservation. He has received several distinctive honors in his profession including election as a Fellow in the Society of American Foresters and a member of the Washington Academy of Sciences. He attributes the success that he has achieved in forest administration on Indian lands to the ability, industry and loyalty of those whome he was able to select as assistants in the management of the Indian Forests. He is a strong and persistent advocate of the thesis that loyalty of the supervisor to a subordinate is as important as that of a subordinate to one occupying a higher position.

On August 19, 1903, he married Minnie Grace Olive, daughter of Frank and Jane (Boyd) Olive of Middlefield, New York. Minnie, who had lived from infancy with her Uncle, John Olive and his wife Betsey M. (Talbot) Olive at Springfield Center, New York, was a graduate of the State Normal School at Oneonta, New York, and had taught several years in the High School at Cooperstown, New York. Subsequent to September, 1906, they have lived in Washington, D.C., but have also retained the Olive home at Springfield Center, New York, and are legal residents of the town of Springfield, New York. Their children are:

154. I. Olive Christine (10) b. May 15, 1904
